

Dear Parents,

To develop your child's strength as a reader, it is important to have your child continue to spend time reading over the summer. I have selected two books for your child to read this summer. In addition to the two books listed, I encourage you to have your child read other books of their own choice. Reading additional books over the summer break helps give to give your child a good start to their next grade level. Enjoy your summer... happy Reading!
